Humanities and Social Sciences
Four- Years' BA
Major English
Syllabus
2019

Major English courses for the four-year BA in English aim at developing students' foundational knowledge of English literature, critical tradition, and interpretive practices. These courses will help inculcate in them a spirit of inquiry, critical thinking, and a taste for appreciating literature, besides improving their communicative, analytical, research, and writing skills. The syllabus, by thus consolidating and strengthening the base, looks forward to the specialized study of literature at the Master's and levels thereafter.

Objectives

The syllabus, which incorporates current global trends in English Studies while remaining attentive to the national/ local needs, envisages the following broad objectives or outcomes. Upon the completion of BA Major English courses, students will be able—

- to provide a broad understanding of English literature, including the heuristics for reading and writing critically about it,
- to embrace and appreciate the core humanistic values—integrity, empathy, and respect to differences,
- to comprehend and appreciate literatures belonging to different cultural and national traditions,
- to acquire necessary knowledge and skills to undertake serious literary and cultural studies independently,
- to recognize the historical formation of ideas, traditions, and social practices,
- to analyze and understand an issue from multiple perspectives, and
- to develop competency in researching, communicating, and problem-solving

Eligibility

To be eligible for admission to four-year BA Major English, students will have completed and received a higher secondary certificate (10-puls 2) or equivalent degree in any discipline or stream from any institution recognized by Tribhuvan University.

Structure of the Courses

The four-year Major English programme at Tribhuvan University consists of seven papers and one elective course (optional elective for non-English majors).

Evaluation Scheme

Each course carries 100 full marks. Students have to score at least 40 marks to pass the course. Of the total 100 marks, 30 marks will be based on continuous/ internal evaluation and rest of the 70 marks will be awarded based on the students' performance in the final examination taken at the end of the academic year. Students must pass both internal and final examinations. However, ENG 427 has a practicum component (part of internal evaluation) that carries 50% course weight.

Paper: I Level: BA Major English Year: First Course Title: Reading, Writing, and Thinking
Course Code: ENG 421

Course Description

This course concentrates on the major elements of literature and provides practical guidelines on reading closely and writing analytically. While the first two units give an exclusive coverage of the genres with a demonstration of the skills needed for a successful reading of and writing about literature with critical thinking, the last two units incorporate some of the well-known topics with wide-ranging tools to help entry level students respond critically to literature at the college level.

Paper: II Level: BA Major English Year: First Course Title: History of English Literature and Criticism Course Code: ENG 422

Course Description

This course covers the key developments in the history of British literature and the history of literary criticism. It emphasizes the growth of English literature, its traditions, conventions and changing characteristics, and includes an overview of the major movements in its literary critical tradition. The course is divided into two segments. The first deals with the history of English literature. In this segment, students will be introduced to the different time periods of English literature, their fundamental concerns, representative writers of those times, and the nature of creative writing. The second segment will familiarize students with the art of criticism from the ancient classical world to the twentieth century. This engagement with the ideas and beliefs, essential for critiquing a piece of literary text, will improve their skill for literary appreciation.
